Compensation Details

- Up to 100 per cent compensation on crop damage caused by white-tailed deer, mule deer, antelope, elk, bears, moose, bison, wild boars, ducks, geese, beavers, blackbirds, gophers and sandhill cranes or other non-domestic species.
- Compensation for flood damage to seeded crop and tame forage due to beaver structures.
- Wildlife damage compensation is available on claims $150 and over.
- Initial payments are made at 75 per cent of crop prices determined by a survey conducted in August. Final compensation values are set based on a six-month average price survey conducted from September to February. The crop grade at harvest is used to determine compensation rates.
- Compensation is also available for cleaning excreta contaminated grain. SCIC staff must identify excreta contamination while crops are still in the field. Excreta compensation is not deducted from subsequent yield-loss claims.
- A handling allowance is available to producers who submit a receipt for cleaning their excreta-contaminated grain.
- For Crop Insurance customers, wildlife losses do not affect long-term individual yields. A customer's yield before wildlife damage will be used to calculate their long-term yield.
